My methods of training are Natural Horsemanship and Clicker Training. My goal when training is to get the horse to learn, and want to be with me, without the horse feeling it is being forced to do so. I engage the horse in a lot of desensitizing work using trail obstacles as well as at liberty work.

Once they are under saddle I take the horse out on the trails. I like going on trail rides when training as I feel it really gets them thinking and it is also a nice break for them from the arena work.

I am available to help people over the phone as well as through E-mail. I sometimes send pictures and videos that I think will be helpful. I also may request a video from the person having an issue so I can get a better idea of what is going on to make suggestions as to what I think will help most.

I am also a Mentor and Trainer for Mustang Yearlings, Washington Youth here in Washington State. I currently own one BLM Mustang and as well as a horse from the Wenatchee (Wenatchi) Indian Reservation here in Washington.
